

may your heart
be a window
through which endless new light pours into the world